FLEET FILLIES STIR ENTHUSIAM OF FANS

By J. W. MARCHBANK

With the yearling sales fast approaching, interest in young thoroughbreds is at its height. All the breeders in the country are looking over their youngsters, intended for the sales ring or not, and wondering if there may not be a few champions among them. The Saratoga sales give everyone an opportunity of picking up a promising colt or filly and that is why they are a stronger magnet year by year. The nucleus for my Heather Farm came from Saratoga, so I have a perfect right to say something about the chances of going there and making purchases that are highly satisfactory.

In an announcement about the sales the Fasig-Tipton Company truly says there is hardly an important racing event in America that has not been won by a horse sold as a yearling at the famous springs.

The prejudice against fillies as performers on the race course is rapidly passing and as likely as not some of the high prices next month will be for young females. My Maid of Perth, bred at Heather Farm, and raced in my colors here on the Pacific Coast, met and vanquished the best colts that could be mustered against her last winter, winning all of her three starts in an impressive manner.

Who knows but that there may be another Black Helen in the band to be offered at Saratoga by my friend, Colonel E. R. Bradley. By her victories over an extended period, the Bradley "queen" has won a place among the best fillies and mares of the American turf, such as Firenze, Miss Woodford, Imp, and others of the olden time.

Some iconoclasts keep hammering away at the Domino line, but the laugh is on them once more. Black Helen, as her name indicates, is a daughter of the Domino line Black Toney. As my readers know, King Heather is a grandson of Domino and it is needless for me to say it is only the expected coming to pass when the "King" sires such a brilliant one as Maid of Perth.

COUNTY PROTESTS DISCRIMINATION IN PAY TO WORKERS IN NEW SET UP

Supervisors Go On Record In Favor of Equality With San Francisco

The Board of Supervisors last Monday took up the cudgels in behalf of San Mateo County workers under the new Works Progress administration, which has supplanted PWA and SERA.

A protest was forwarded to the governmental body on a differential in wages to be paid San Francisco and San Mateo County workers.

The board approved a communication from the Rev. M. R. Power, chairman of the San Mateo County Relief Committee, to Frank Y. McLaughlin, head of state relief administration,, that all of San Mateo County should be considered with San Francisco in payment of the metropolitan wage scale.

Men taken from San Mateo County and placed on projects within the San Francisco metropolitan area would be paid a lower scale for doing the same work because they were were San Mateo County residents and residing within a rural classification, it was pointed out.

Proposed wage scales ranged from $44 to $69 per month for San Mateo County unskilled labor, and from $55 to $94 in San Francisco for the same work. The latter figure in each case increases according to the size of the family.

Chairman Power pointed out that living expenses on the peninsula were not cheaper than in San Francisco.

J. F. Cambiano, union agent, supported the protest of Chairman Power and urged the board to act in behalf of organized labor. He called the proposed wages "outrageous."

San Mateo County Beauties

Both the girl and the "mums" are prize winners and they'll be seen at Bay Meadows next October when San Mateo County stages her first annual Garden Floral Pageant. The "mums" are some of the $8,000,000 worth that San Mateo County ships to all parts of the nation annually. Fortunately for the county, the girl stays at home.

COUNTY FESTIVAL PLANS GO ALONG AT RECORD SPEED BY ACTIVE HEADS

Country To Be Given Spectacular Demonstration of Beauty of Home Section

Interest in the first annual San Mateo County Festival and Floral Pageant in October is spreading fast. The citizens in charge are formulating complete arrangements for the celebration.

With an early start in preparing for the show the executive committee, headed by George J. Davis of Millbrae, is confident it will take rank at one bound with the best anywhere. Particular attention will be devoted to the night programs, as it is after sundown the largest attendance is expected. It is likely the festival will be for a period of four days, probably Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday in the middle of the month, Oct. 11, 12, 13 and 14.

It has been decided to hold the next meeting of the general committee on the night of July 26 at the San Mateo City Hall. The meeting will be ealled to order at 8 o'clock, said President Davis.

At a recent meeting of the general commitntee Judge C. A. Shurtleff, Menlo Park, was elected first executive vice president with Mrs. F. M. Perkins, Redwood City, second vice president and Bruce Gibson, San Mateo, third vice president. Others

COUNCIL TO MAKE SURVEY OF COSTS ON BIG PROJECTS

Smaller Sum From City Seems Likely In Carrying Out Improvements

A tentative survey of the PWA projects in which Daly City is interested would indicate that the municipality will not be required to furnish as large an amount of money as was at first thought necessary, according to report by Mayor H. H. Smith to the Council at a meeting last Monday. The report followed a conference with Federal officials of the new set-up under the PWA.

The Council members plan to make a complete estimate of the various projects from the standpoint of the amoun of material necessary and also of the hours of labor required. It is desired to determine the exact sum the city must put up prior to the submission of a bond issue to the people.

The Federal representatives have let it be known the Daly City program for improvements and relief for the unemployed is thought a very good one and assurances have been given that it would undoubtedly be accorded favorable consideration.

Negotiations have been entered into by the Council with the members of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School District with the object of the city obtaining title to the Vista Grande school site and building.

BOY INJURED IN TRUCK-CAR CRASH

Late last Saturday afternoon as C. Jesperson, of 171 Los Olivos avenue, made a left hand turn across the run way over the street car tracks on Mission street at Knowles avenue, the truck was in collision with a No. 14 car of the Market Street Railway system, Motorman J. Ochea.

Joe Hines, 19, of Niantic avenue, a passenger with Jesperson in the truck, was injured.

The injured boy was treated at the Villa Sanatorium for several broken ribs.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC

The Daughters of Israel of San Francisco and Daly City held a get-together picnic at Sterns Grove in San Francisco Monday. About seventy guests were present.

The day was spent in dancing and playing games with a basket luncheon at noon.

AMBITION REALIZED

Daughter of the founder of Hollywood, Virginia Verrell, just eighteen, often dreamed of being a radio singer. Chaperoned by her mother, she went to New York to get her name in bright lights and recently was signed as a featured star on a prominent radio program.

BODY OF SUICIDE FOUND ON HILL

Saturday morning about 6:50 o'clock the local police were notified that a man was lying on his back with a gun in one hand, on the hillside near Bellevue avenue between Alexander and Crocker avenues.

An officer found the victim had been dead several hours.

Deputy Coroner Luella D. Pepper was notified. The body was removed to the W. C. Lasswell and Company undertaking establishment, where the man identified as Agostino Devencenzi, 38, 421 Union street, San Francisco.

Agostino held in his stiff outstretched hand a rusty gun of unknown make, containing five shells, four of which had been hit by the hammer but did not go off, the fifth shell exploded and hit Agostino in the head killing him instantly.

WOODSIDE ROAD IN STATE SYSTEM

Governor Frank Merriam has signed the bill placing the Woodside road in the state's secondary system, according to Col. Frederick Peterson of Burlingame, San Mateo County assemblyman who drafted the bill.

Peterson said that the state will undertake minor repairs and general upkeep of the Woodside road shortly. Meanwhile, work on the ditch elimination project was proceeding in front of the Washington school.

LET US ANSWER CALL FOR AID

Listen! There's an S.O.S. call coming through from the vicinity of 37 degrees 48 minutes North Latitude and 122 degrees 26 minutes West Longitude.

A fellow citizen is in distress and needs our support and aid. In his position as an officer of the law his duty was to protect the citizens of Daly City, even though it cost him his own life. We miss seeing him now in the line of traffic—happy genial Ed Heim—and our hearts are brimming with sympathy for him during the long hours being spent in the hospital.

"In union there is strength," so, by joining hands with Chief Doyle and his assistants, we can make the Benefit Dance for Ed a whale of a success—which means that when it's all over there will be a pile of halves big enough to assure Ed that, financially, there isn't anything to worry about and, best of all, that we are his friends and all want to do our bit to help, for after all, we are "our brother's keeper."

From out across the waves of suffering comes the S.O.S. The good ship Daly City is on her way to the rescue.

The benefit dance for officer Heim will be given by the Daly City Municipal Employes at Tanforan Club House on Saturday evening, September 7. "We'll be seeing you."

SALINAS ATTRACTS THRONG TO RODEO

The annual rodeo at Salinas opened yesterday (Thursday) with the champion riders and ropers of the country doing their stuff. More than 2000 head of livestock have been corralled for the big show. Elaborate plans had been completed for the entertainment of thousands and the thousands attended. The seating capacity had been doubled, new entrance gates added.

Special features this year are on the four days performances by the world famous rodeo clown, Tin Horn Hank Keenan, and his son Little Tin Horn Hank, and a thrilling exhibition of horsemanship in Roman races by crack cavalry riders of the Monterey Presidio.

Unofficially, the program got under way Wednesday afternoon with preliminary judging of entrants in the "outdoor girl" contest. On the evening of the same day the Kiddie Kapers parade, juvenile feature of the rodeo, were staged.

BRILLIANT ROLE FITS NEW TENOR IN IDEAL STYLE

Film At Daly City Theater Demonstrates Place Of Music On Screen

The recorded success of the new GB musical comedy romance, "My Heart Is Calling," starring the celebrated young tenor, Jan Kiepura, which will play at the Daly City Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 21, 22 and 23, furnishes another screen proof that there is now a definite place for music on the screen. "Be Mine Tonight," Kiepura's last starring venture, went far toward proving this assertion, which was doubted by many big film executives, and "My Heart Is Calling," with its wide popular appeal, which extends to all real music lovers, clinches the argument in favor of film song and melody.

It would be difficult to imagine a more appropriate role for Jan Kiepura than that of a carefree, talented youthful tenor, who becomes the financial salvation of a stranded opera company in Monte Carlo, after many misadventures.

He is still under contract to the Vienna Opera Company, where he made his first big operatic hit, as a mere boy in the early twenties, and a Kiepura night in Vienna is looked upon by the music-loving citizens as an event of supreme importance.

Martha Eggerth, the beautiful blonde Hungarian actress, of Continental fame, is Kiepura's leading lady in "My Heart Is Calling," and Sonnie Hale, England's premier comedian, fun-maker extraordinary, in the role of manager of the insolvent opera company.

The second attraction is "Baby Face Harrington," with Charles Butterworth and Una Merkel.

PIONEER OF DALY CITY PASSES AT ATHERTON HOME

Former Councilman J. A. Meeks Served County as Deputy For Long Time

Joseph A. Meeks, deputy sheriff of San Mateo County and former member of the Daly City Council, died at his Atherton home Monday night after an illness of six weeks. He was bailiff in Superior Judge Maxwell McNutt's court.

Meeks came to California from Providence, R. I., thirty years ago and settled in San Francisco, where he engaged in the electric sign business, later moving his home to Daly City, where he became active in civic affairs.

In December, 1915, he was made a fire commissioner from Company No. 4, and on April 10, 1916 he ran for two-year term as councilman and was elected and April 8, 1918 he ran for

UNION SCALE IS ORDERED ON PWA

Washington dispatches say revised regulations governing PWA projects opened the way for payment of union wages and speeding up of spending of $900,000,000 under the $4,000,000,000 employment program.

State PWA directors "may disapprove any rate to be paid, other than a rate predetermined under law or ordinance, it it is less than the prevailing union rate," Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced.

The wage provisions are a part of a general revision of regulations designed to expedite the PWA projects and speed up the re-employment of persons now on relief rolls, Ickes said. President Roosevelt joined in the action to speed up the work.

Where practicable, it is provided, double shifts of labor shall be employed to speed the work. Prevailing wages would be paid on the basis of 130 hours a month. The new regulatins provide for an examination of projects in the field, a similar contract between the government and the applicant, and preliminary work.

EXPERT GIVES REPLY TO BACKWARD TALK

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Clarification of the monetary policy of the Roosevelt administration from no less an authority than Attorney General Homer S. Cummings should silence some of the unfair critics of the president. That may be hoping too much. Reason seems to be he last thing quite a number of the knockers will listen to; they lost privileges apparently with the legislation in regard to gold and silver and can't help showing their discomfiture in emotional outbursts at the opposite pole of reasoning.

"The government embarked on a definite policy in which the financial structure of the country was changed," said the attorney general the other day. "In my opinion that policy saved this country from complete chaos."

The government is seeking to have a law passed forbidding "gold clause" suits as a safeguard against the possibility that damages arising from the revaluation of the dollr might be shown at some time, even though the Supreme Couht has refused to grant damages on the ground bondholders have not suffered.

While the group that fails to see the change in the economic set-up in this third decade of the twentieth century are trying to hold back the wheels of progress, far-seeing citizens are predicting further action with stabilization of currencies by the leading nations of the world coming ultimately. Nearly all of the monetary gold—about 75 per cent—is in control of three countries, France, England and the United States, and it is asked pertinently by men conversant with conditions of what use is the great stock of the precious metal unless it is put to work.

Sidney Norman, in the Vancouver Sun, well says:

"There may be some occult reason for prideful contemplation of a vast horde of gold shut away from the sight or use of man, but what benefit it can be to the world at large, or how it can stimulate trade intercourse upon which we must in the last analysis depend for prosperity and very life, is quite beyond the scope of the imagination."

A Johnsonian sentence it is true, but there is plenty of food for thought in its long clauses.

Late dispatches from Washington tell or arrangements with European governments by which United States goods, millions of dollars in value, will be purchased in the next year. That is all to the good. That is a step away from the exploded theory of isolation that has done so much harm. The world is one big family and an increase in trade relations is imperative to restore it to an even keel. World interchange of goods keeps gold and silver occupied in the only work for which they have value.

elected were Chester Lipman, San Mateo, secretary; Elmer Roberts, Burlingame, treasurer, and B. G. Kost, Daly City, financial secretary.

Pledges of support from representatives of cities and organizations were received and an advisory committee need to work with the general committee. On the advisory board are Mayor C. A. Buck, Burlingame; Mayor Frank P. Simmen, San Mateo; Mayor Charles G. Lambert, Redwood City; Rodney McLellan, Burlingame; City Manager J. C. Nowell, Hillsborough, and Philip Graves, San Mateo, representing the Peninsula Gardeners association.

Among those giving pledges were representatives of the Menlo Park Gardeners' association, the Woodside Gardeners association and the committee representing Mayor James Cooper, Menlo Park, and consisting of Mrs. J. E. Cooper, Mrs. Avery Smith, Major Park and Paul Parry.

Others included Pansy J. Abbott, county school superintendent; Mayor Chris Jordan, Belmont; Former Mayor W. H. Weeden, Menlo Park; Mayor Simmen, Mrs. R. L. Stone, president of the San Mateo County Federation of Women's clubs; Mayor Buck; Mrs. William J. Hayes, past president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers; William McCarthy, county publicity director; Mrs. F. M. Perkins, Redwood City Women's club; Mrs. H. B. Sprague, Burlingame-San Mateo Flower club and Max V. Leonard, San Mateo county agricultural commissioner.

William McCarthy, Burlingame, San Mateo County's publicity director, who with County Executive Walter T. Kellogg, originated and developed the festival idea for the county, has spent much time on the preliminary work.

Two contests have been inaugurated, one for a name for the festival and the other the selection of a queen.

The county supervisors have been extended a vote of thanks for the appropriation of $5000 in aid of the show.

AMERICAN LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Daly City Post No. 410, American Legion met on Wednesday evening and elected the following officers for the coming year: Commander, Cleo Miller; first vice commander, Harry Andersen; second vice commander, Wm. Riordan; finance officer, F. Foreman Jr.; chaplain, Emil Pahlka; historian, Lesley Hill; sergeant at arms, John Derungs; service officer, F. C. Chapman; color bearers, Joe Olson and Wm. Cooper; executive board, Larry Reilly, O. H. Tallmadge, F. P. Callsen; delegates to department convention, Edw. Trier, Cleo Miller, Lesley Hill, Harry Andersen; alternates, Larry Reilly, Wm. Riordan, Manley Chaplin, R. E. Durkee; delegates to county council, Cleo Miller, Lesley Hill, Edw. Trier; alternates, Wm. Riordan, Felix Chapman, Harry Andersen.

The district cacus will be held in the San Francisco War Memorial on Friday evening, July 26, for the purpose of electing the district commander for the coming year. All Legionnaires are invited to attend. Other business pertaining to the coming convention to be held in Fresno will be discussed. Immediately following this meeting a joint session will be held wih the Seventh District to select a candidate for commander of the second area.

The second area meeting will be held in the San Francisco War Memorial on Sunday, July 28. At this some time the contest of all ritualistic teams in the second area will be held. The finals consisting of the winning eams of the areas will be held at the convention in Fresno on Sunday afternoon.

SKATE HELPS IN MORE THAN ONE WAY

Mrs. Harry Maloney and daughter Dora, accompanied by Mr. Curly Arnando and Miss Patricia Maloney motored to Rockaway Beach last Sunday morning to try their luck at fishing. Lady Luck favored these early morning risers, but top honors were captured by Curly Arnando, who landed a 100 pound skate.

It may be a good hunch for Manager Martin of the Daly City Tanforan baseball club to order the great Maloney to one of these trips preceding each game, as we noted Harry connected for two home runs and a single at Sunday's game with Redwood City, which accounted for four of his team's runs.

Please take note "Jeff." What say you?

JOTTINGS FROM THE LOCAL FIELD

Mrs. R. Sanders and daughters Alice and Lorraine of Woodrow street, Mrs. S. Basso and daughter Ruth of Hanover street and Mrs. Speck of Los Banos avenue returned to their homes Sunday after enjoying a two weeks vacation at Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McMahan of San Francisco are receiving congratulations from their friends on the birth of a daughter, born Monday, July 8, at the Lane Hospital in San Francisco. Mrs. McMahan was formerly Miss Elena Giomi of Parkview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Aston of 99 Crocker avenue are the proud parents of a son, born Tuesday, July 2 in San Fancisco.

Mrs. J. M. Gill of Vista Grande avenue, wife of Rev. Gill of the Grace Church of the Nazarene, who has been seriously ill for several weeks is greatly improved in health, which will be good news to her many friends.

A marriage license was issued in San Francisco this week to Wililam Kennedy, 25, 163 Lyon street and Georgina Bennett, 22, Daly City.

Mrs. M. Kobler of Templeton avenue left Tuesday evening of this week for Washington, D. C. and New York, where she plans to visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Fred Wettstein of Brunswick street returned last Thursday evening from a vacation in Yosemite Valley and Stockton.

Mr. J. Maloff of Risel street is in the San Fracisco Hospital, where he is undergoing treatment. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Irwin of Partridge Lane returned Tuesday evening from a vacation of two weeks at Salt Lake City, where they visited with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Tony Parmasino and children, Mrs. Minnie Rancatore and daughters, the Misses Florence and Evelyn and son Tommy of Evergreen avenue and Mr. and Mrs. James Reardon and children of Rice street enjoyed a two weeks vacation at Monte Rio.

Little Yvonne Hume of Miriam street has returned to her home from the Childrens Hospital. Her many little friends hope she will enjoy her fifth birthday at home next Monday. Many happy returns of the day, Yvonne.

re-election and was again elected.

In 1922 he was appointed deputy sheriff by the late Sheriff H. Lampkin.

Meeks had a very wide circle of friends, who mourn his passing. Judge McNutt's court adjourned on Tuesday out of respect to the memory of the late bailiff. Attorneys Norman Menifee and Alpheus McGovern made the motion for adjournment and in granting it, Judge McNutt pai da glowing tribute to Meeks, saying:

"I have never known a man more devoted to duty. His devotion to duty and his principles were a creed to him, from which he never wavered. He had the courage of a lion, and no duty was ever assigned to him that he did not fulfill, often at considerable sacrifice to himself. I grant this motion gladly, but I regret the necessity for doing so."

Meeks was a stern enforcer of the law and several years ago was wounded in a gun battle with an itinerant and deranged preacher in San Mateo. He shot and killed the demented man, after former Deputy Sheriff C. A. Callaghan had been seriously wounded.

Meeks is survived by his wife, Mary and two stepsons, Frank and Warren Buttman. He was 73 years of age.

With many county officials and hundreds of friends in attendance, the funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Redwood City. Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Joe Marshall of San Jose and Lillian White of San Francisco were united in holy matrimony Tuesday afternoon of this week at the Nazarene parsonage with Rev. J. M. Gill officiating. The newly-weds immediately left San Francisco by boat for Los Angeles on heir honeymoon.

Lillian White is a Sunday school teacher at the Nazarene church and has many friends in Daly City who wish them a long happy married life. They will make their home at 81 Whittier street, San Francisco.

The local merchant can increase his business and keep purchases at home by advertising in The Record.

OF INTEREST TO UNEMPLOYED OF SAN MATEO CO.

It is imperative that all of the unemployed of this county know of the new ruling regarding registration for work, under the new Works Progress Administration.

All parties registered on relief must register at once at the office of the National Re-employment Service at 211 First avenue, San Mateo. All benefits and assistance derived from the SERA will be of no avail if this new registration, at the office of the National Re-employment Service is not taken care of immediately.

Mr. Melville Fuller, manager of the National Re-employment Service, announces that this office will remain open all day Saturday, July 20, for the purpose of registering all those who desire to contact the office.

Registrations will be taken at the following places:

Daly City, South San Francisco, Bayshore City, Brisbane, Colma, Salada Beach, Lawndale and vicinity—Friday evening, July 19, 7:30 o'clock. Registrations will be taken at the City Hall.

Half Moon Bay and vicinity—Monday evening, July 22, 7:30 o'clock. Registrations will be taken at the American Legion Hall which is located in the fire house.

San Bruno, Lomita Park, Millbrae and vicinity—Tuesday evening, July 23, 7:30 o'clock. Registrations will be taken at the SERA office at 672 San Mateo avenue, San Bruno.

Redwood City, Woodside, Menlo Park, East Palo Alto, Atherton and vicinity—Wednesday evening, July 24, 7:30 o'clock. Registrations will be taken at the SERA office, located at 1109 Middlefield Road, Redwood City.

Picket Fence Walk Sends Youngster To Near-by Hospital

As the result of an accident that impaled him on a picket fence, Francis Nesby, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merl Nesby, 332 Hillside Boulevard, has his right arm swathed in bandages.

The boy fell while attempting to "tight walk" the fence of a neighbor near his home at 332 Hillside Boulevard last Friday evening about 5:30 o'clock. His body grazed a picket as he fell and the sharp point plunged into his arm, severing an artery.

Mrs. E. R. Milroy, a neighbor, rushed the boy to the Villa Sanatorium, where the wound was dressed and stitched by Dr. E. R. Lynch.

MERCHANTS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

All Arrangements Ready For the Grandest Celebration Yet Held

Almost another year has rolled around since the Merchants Association of Daly City celebrated its last annual picnic at Oak Cove Park near San Mateo. Just now committees are working feverishly preparing for what they say will be the greatest of all outings thus far attempted.

The close relationship which naturally and necessarily exists between merchants and the general public as their patrons, renders it only fitting and proper that they should at least once a year lay aside their cares and their worries for recreation and enjoyment in some quiet and convenient place.

Oak Cove Park is a short distance west of San Mateo on the road to Half Moon Bay, and it would be hard to find a more beautiful spot in which to spend a day pleasantly among friends and associates. Sheltered by the hills and forests, the climate is unexcelled, and the accommodations for comfort of patrons is all that could be wished for. There under the spreading oaks, the Daly City Band of forty pieces, with their resplendent new uniforms, will dispense sweet music for the enjoyment of the thousands who are sure to be there. This band, formerly known as the Eagles' Band of Daly City, has now become famous and, through the assistance of good friends, has procured bright new uniforms which add greatly to their appearance. This feature alone is well worth the trip to the picnic grounds. Good band music is enjoyable at any time or place, but hearing them playing in the open, under the shade of one of our California spreading oak trees, with the bright blue sky above, and surrounded by friends and acquaintances, and plenty of good things to eat and drink, is inspiring and refreshing indeed, and will be a great treat to the thousands in attendance.

It was decided at the last meeting of the Merchants Association to adverise this picnic throughout the length and breadth of San Mateo County and in San Francisco also, and to send special invitations to all county and city officials and their office forces.

This day will be long rememebred. So, set aside the date now, and get down there. Don't miss it. You will have at least one good time. Date, Sunday, August 11, 1935; place, Oak Cove Park, near San Mateo.

MORE GAS TAX FOR DALY CITY

With the signing of the Knowland bill by Governor Merriam the municipalities of the state are guaranteed an additional one-quarter cent share of the gasoline tax fund. This increase, with the present one-quarter cent share, will give to Daly City a half cent share amounting to approximately $10,581 per year, or about double the present amount of gasoline tax money being received by the city, according to figures which have been issued.

Cities will begin to receive the additional amount this fall. The increase allocation to cities will come from the state's share of the gasoline tax and so will not disturb the present one cent share to counties.

FRIENDS SURPRISE

Mrs. A. Gargiulo of Brunswick street was guest of honor at a surprice birthday party given at her home Tuesday evening.

Cards were enjoyed after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames Guy Gariulo, Tony Gargiulo, Charles Gardella, Dale Bonnett; Mrs. Marie Pollio, Miss Angelina Pollio, Dolly Pollio and Mary Gargiulo.

Claim English Clock Is Perfect Timepiece

A clock which will be more accurate than the earth itself, which will become the world's standard time, which will be so perfect that nothing else but a similar clock can check it, has been for some time under observation at the national physical laboratory at Teddington, England.

Astronomers have long sought a timekeeper independent of both the earth's motion and of gravity, and this seems the fulfillment of their dream, for it need only be kept at exactly the same temperature to keep perfect time.

In appearance the clock is like a coffin, but inside this wooden box is a metal rod, mounted on insulating material and surrounded by a vacuum, that vibrates in its own natural period which nothing except a change of temperature can effect. To prevent any passage of heat across the vacuum, water is kept flowing outside it at an even temperature.

Second signals can be taken from this super-accurate clock, so that when transmitted to a special chronograph time-observations can be made to within one five-thousandth of a second.

Mid-Meal "Snack" Often in Order

Indulgence Not Always to Be Looked Upon as Gluttony.

Eating between meals may be a good thing, and it may not be. It depends upon the individual and the circumstances. There are countries and circumstances in which meals are so spaced that to eat between meals would be both foolish and unnecessary. For example, when, before rising, a cup of tea is brought and this is followed at a later hour by breakfast, then lunch, afternoon tea, a full course dinner, and a late supper (in America we give this last meal the name of theater supper), where in such a schedule is there need or desire for a mid-meal? The above schedule is not unusual.

Then there are other countries where a bit of food between meals is craved. In American homes we often find a mid-meal needed when there is a long stretch between an early breakfast and a luncheon, sometimes set late to accommodate students. If luncheon is early there is apt to be recourse to the pantry between four and five o'clock for a mid-meal, unless afternoon tea is served. Those in the business world not infrequently take time for a snack either in the mid-morning or mid-afternoon, according to whether their luncheon time is early or late. And if no time can be taken to go out for it, or to eat it should it be brought in, it is usually possible to be excused for a moment, when a cracker, a cooky, a bit of fruit or a glass of milk (from a vacuum bottle), can be quickly taken and prove reviving.

On shipboard mid-meals are served as regularly as other meals, increasing the number from three to five and six meals. About eleven a morning broth with or without crackers is brought around. An afternoon tea is served as part of the regular service, on certain lines, while a supper is obtainable during the evening. So do the steamship companies provide plenty of nourishment to gratify hungry appetites in the bracing sea air.

Those who are dieting may find it advisable to eat less at the regular meal and have the allotment divided, so that the craving for food between meals can be satisfied. Children are apt to require mid-meals. They are active little people, use up their vitality quickly, and need to have it restored by between-meals food. The important matter in all mid-meal eating is to have it come, as the name implies, mid-way between two consecutive meals, with the balance preferably a trifle away from the first and toward the second meal.

Plants Stimulated by New Chemical Compound

"Auxin" is a word destined to be bandied about like "hormone" and "vitamin." For auxin has an extraordinary effect on plant growth. Cut off the tip of an oat sprout and growth ceases. Apply a trace of auxin—it can be extracted from the cut tip—and growth is resumed. Rub auxin on one side of the sprout and growth occurs only on that side.

Interested in such experiments as he was, A. E. Hitchcock, working at the Boyce Thompson institute for plant research, decided to experiment with a commercially available compound known as indole-3-n-propionic acid, and this for the reason that the compound is chemically similar to auxin. He found no difficulty in making the leaves and stems of tomato, marigold, buckwheat and tobacco plants bend. A little of the chemical caused a bending away from the point of application, and much chemical, toward the point of application.

Carbon monoxide, ethylene, acetylene and proplylene—all gases—brought about similar responses. This naturally raises questions. What happens to the plant when it is smeared or treated with gases? Why should such widely different chemicals and gases produce the same results? Can it be that all have just one common active agent? If so, what is it? And what is its relation to life processes?—New York Times.

LET US MAKE YOUR VACATION TRIP SAFER

BEFORE you start on your vacation trip, let us completely inspect your car. There is no charge for this service and it will assure you of a safer and more enjoyable trip.

For the convenience and safety of car owners Firestone has established more than 500 Auto Supply and Service Stores throughout the country, and thousands of Firestone Dealers are also equipped with complete Auto Supplies and complete Service Departments, to test and service your tires, brakes, batteries, spark plugs, in addition to power lubrication and crank case service.

AVOID THE DANGER OF BLOWOUTS

Firestone removes the danger of blowouts by preventing their main cause—internal friction and heat. This is accomplished by Gum-Dipping.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY:

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

— Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes.

For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death.

2 "Are they blowout-proof?"

—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles, averaging 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind.

3 "Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

— Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. In fact, unequaled mileage records of thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Equip your car with a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Non-Skid Tires, the safest tires ever built and avoid the dangers of skidding and blowouts.

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee—LIBERAL TRADE-IN ALLOWANCE FROM THESE PRICES

1 University tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires.

3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

PREDICTS PANIC AS PRODUCTION WAS INCREASED

Professor Claimed That New Gold Discoveries Had Glutted Market

Sidney Norman says "economists sometimes go wrong" in the following article, published in the Vancouver Sun of recent date:

It seems like a mean trick to "pull the record" on economists, but apparently there is no hard-and-fast rule by which they navigate the turbulent seas of depression or the calm waters of prosperity.

Twenty-five years ago, Professor Irving Fisher, who has been much in the public eye ever since, solmenly predicted a panic owing to the increase in gold production caused by recent discovery of new fields in South Africa, Alaska, Australia and parts of the United States. In fact, the professor said, production had glutted the market.

At that time the writer was editor of the Los Angeles Mining Review and had this to say in reply to the worthy professor:

Does he really believe that a plethora of gold makes panics, or does he not rather believe that a system which permits that gold to pass into the hands of a favored few, creations of special privilege, is really at fault. Watering of stocks has led to much of our current troubles."

It may be that the professor sticks to his guns and believes this six-year panic which has laid the world by the heels is due to over-production of gold, although we have no direct intimation of his attitude.

In any event, it is evident that if he inclines that way he is totally at variance with others who also rank as economists.

During 1910, the year in which the professor's dire prophecy was made, world production was worth a little over $450,000,000.

At the same price as then prevailed production for 1934 was just under $563,000,000, while, at the boosted price of $35 an ounce, the value was over $953,000,000.

On the basis of revaluation, all the world's visible gold now amounts to about 20,000 million dollars. Of that amount, the United States owns 8538 million and France 5470 million.

In other words, just two nations of the world now own $14,000 million, or seven-tenths of the whole.

Rather than depressions being caused by plethora of gold, the dominant minds of the world believe that they are due to scarcity of buying power represented by gold. The gold standard has now been abandoned by all but four or five nations and they cling perilously to a worn-out fetish.

Public debts of the world have risen to the almost incalculable sum of $400,000 million, upon which interest at even one per cent could not be dug from the ground in five years.

The world is now confidently awaiting a further boost of gold price to $41.34 and even then the annual production would equal but one-third of one per cent upon the huge debts already piled up.

Possibly Professor Irving never played poker. In that event he missed a good lesson. As we see it, two players sit behind stacks of chips up to their eyebrows, while the other players around the table finger a few measly tokens and are afraid to bet. Thus, interest in the game has descended to zero and the denuded players are seriously considering substitution of other chips and institution of a new game of their own.

Trade — very life itself — are just bets. If players have no chips to shove into the pot, the game soon languishes. Then, bed.

And so, with due respect to Professor Irving Fisher, we suggest that such theories as he expressed twenty-five years ago are moth-eaten, were never sound and have been thoroughly exploded since.

Further, we believe that remonetization of silver must come and that it is on the way. Gold, the tyrannical king, has proven too hard a master and silver now comes forward to temper kingly severity and let the game go on.

It was only a few months after the Professor's prophecy was made that the United States began to curtail coinage of gold.

In October, 1910, it was announced by Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh and Director of the Mint Roberts that "there was litle demand for gold coin except in sections of the Pacific Coast" and that consequently paper currency would be substituted.

The writer remembers well the squawk that went up to high Heaven from the West at that time, but that section of the country did not count much in politics in those days and slowly but surely the double-eagles, eagle and half-eagles — the finest, most substantial money human ever fingered—were withdrawn from circulation.

A little later, the mint at New Orleans was closed and then the landmark at San Francisco, reminiscent of the hectic days of the 50's and 60's. At the time it was announced that the United States treasury held 1900 million in coined gold, with certificates issued against it.

Since then those coins have been melted down to bullion, the Treasury stands guard over a lump of gold worth 8½ billion dollars, and it has become a crime to hold the metal in lump, dust or coin.

The expense of converting gold coin into bullion for foreign settlements was $30 to $40 per$1000. The laws then provided that gold backing for currency be in the shape of coin and it was suggested that a change be made to permit one-fourth issue against coin and three-fourths against bullion. Now, there is nothing but bullion.

LIONS CLUBS JOIN IN DRIVE FOR HIGHWAY

Promotion of international good will, the uniting of the people of Canada and the United States in the development of America's last frontier —Northern British Columbia, Yukon Territory, and Alaska—is envisioned by the Lions Clubs of District No. 19, Lions International, comprising British Columbia, Washington and Northern Idaho. The project, brought to the fore by a bill pending before Congress appropriating $2,100,000 for the Alaska section of the Pacific-International Highway, is receiving the enthusiastic support of many American organizations, says the Alaska Weekly.

With 1073 miles of the road completed, and the entire plan studied by a joint United States-Canadian commission, the feasibility and the far-reaching benefits of the highway are attested by leaders in Alaska, British Columbia and the states. Employment, they point out, would be one great benefit from the expenditure by both governments of the estimated $14,000,000 required. But of still greater importance,, it is pointed out by the Hon. George M. Murray, member of the British Columbia Legislature, would be the enormously rich territory opened up for settlement, mineral development and new opportunities both in American and Canadian territory.

Officials appear to be coming to the realization that the Alaska Pacific-International Highway is truly an empire building project which will do more for permanent development and economic expansion of British Columbia, Yukon Territory and Alaska than any other one thing conceived for that vast area in the last one hundred years.

"The Lions Clubs, well represented in Canada and Mexico, believe this is a project citizens of ours and neighboring countries can unite on to further international friendship on this continent," said Dr. Evan Holway of Seattle, chairman of the Lions District No. 19 Alaska, Highway Committee. "We are desirous of uniting our efforts with all other organizations to further this great International Highway." A representative Alaska Highway Committee chosen from prominent members of the clubs of the coast cities, has been announced by District Governor Clarence Bergman of Everett, Wash.

Among Useful Spares

A spare headlight fuse is one of the handiest extras that the average motorist can carry in the car, states an authority. Some states require it, along with spare light bulbs, but even where such a regulation is not on the books the precaution is a wise one.

Destruction of a fuse is one of the commonest causes of headlight failure and there is nothing more crippling to progress as that misfortune. Some of the new cars carry these spares.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: Where is the South American desert?

Answer: It extends from Ecuador, 2000 miles south along the coast of Peru and Chile.

Question: Are there oasis in the desert?

Answer: In this 2000 miles of sand there are about forty streams made by the melting snows of the Andes, and along them are the only places where humans live, and there are rich plantations on which are grown sugar cane, rice and tobacco. Bananas, oranges, limes and lemons grow side by side with peaches, pears, cherries, plums, dates and figs in these districts. Melons, guavos, mangoes, pawpaws and alligator pears are also grown.

Question: What is the mango?

Answer: It is the fruit of a tropical evergreen tree, belonging to the cashew family. The tree is native to India, but is cultivated in other tropical and subtropical regions. Under cultivation, mangoes are luscious, smooth fleshed fruits with a sweet or slightly acid flavor, and spicy odor. They are kidney shaped, with smooth yellowish skin, and sometimes weigh as much as four pounds. The pulp is eaten fresh as a dessert when ripe. California and southern Florida grow mangoes in limited quantities. The mango tree is very beautiful and grows rapidly to a height of 40 feet.

Question: What are guavos?

Answer: A small fruit about the size of a hen's egg; oblong, smooth and yellow. Not only does it grow in Asia, but also in the southern United States. The firm, flesh colored, sweetish, sour pulp, is filled with horny seeds. The thin, brittle rind when stewed with milk, makes a fine marmalade. The fruit is also eaten sliced, with cream, is used in pastry, and is made into a jam called guava cheese. The tree grows about 20 feet in height.

Question: What is the pawpaw fruit?

Answer: It is a fruit as large as a musk melon and grows on a palm like tree, with its leaves grouped in the form of a rosette at the top. The fruit looks like a musk melon but is smaller, and has a yellow flesh that is eaten fresh, used in salads when ripe and boiled as a vegetable when unripe. The tree yields a milky juice, which is used as a medicine by the natives in the tropics. The fruit itself is used as a face bleach. This tree not only grows in the tropics, but is raised in Florida to supply the local market. This specie belongs to the passion flower family.

There is another variety of pawpaw belonging to the custard apple family, which grows only in the United States. It bears fruit which resembles a banana but has not enough flavor to make it very popular. The bark of the tree is used in making fish nets.

COMMON THEFT OF RIGHT OF WAY

One right-of-way theft which is not recognized for what it is, it has been pointed out, is that of coming to a stop on the crosswalk reserved for pedestrians. It constitutes one of the most annoying and most common invasions of territory that belongs to others.

When haled into court for this breach of the regulations, many motorists profess surprise that it is a punishable offense.

They regard it as a matter of etiquette to be heeded or ignored as the individual sees fit and it takes a fine sometimes to teach them that giving the pedestrian his specific pathway is a provision of law.

You can help yourself and your home newspaper by patronizing your home merchants.

YELLOWSTONE CUTOFF LOGGED BY CLUB

Motorists driving to Yellowstone will find the Yellowstone Cutoff from Redding via Alturas, Lakeview, Burns, Ontario, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Blackfoot an interesting alternate route.

Pavement is encountered via U. S. 99 to Redding and three miles beyond, then excellent oiled macadam to Alturas. From Alturas to Lakeview, Oregon, the first five miles are oiled macadam; the next 54 miles to the California-Oregon line dust-coated with oil followed by 14 miles of oiled bituminous macadam.

From Lakeview to Burns; 22 miles unoiled macadam, thence 107 miles of fine gravel surface followed by 12 miles of oiled macadam; all in excellent condition. The first 25 miles east of Burns is good cross country dirt and gravel road. Six miles of construction follows, portions of which are rough. Careful driving is necessary. The next 58 miles are wide graveled highway, with the last 37 miles oiled macadam.

From Ontario to Boise, oiled and macadam. The rest of the route to Yellowstone is all paved or oiled, with the exception of five and a half miles of good gravel just north of Ashton.

The distance from Redding to Boise via the route outlined is 531 miles.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, July 21, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. . . . and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life" (Ps. 36: 7-9). Other Bible citations will include: "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death" (Prov. 12: 28).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "DEATH. An illusion, the lie of life in matter; the unreal and untrue the opposite of Life. . . . Mortals claim that death is inevitable; but man's eternal Principle is ever-present Life" (pp. 584, 312).

CHAMPIONSHIP OF LEAGUE WON BY HOME TEAM

Tough Game To Win and Tough One To Lose Is Played Sunday

(By Al Gould)

The talk of the town is Daly City Tanforan's sensational baseball record. In a spirited contest Sunday afternoon at Redwood City the home team defeated the strong Regal Amber club by the score of 8 to 6.

In eleven games played during the series, the Tanforans have ten of those games to their credit for the indisputable supremacy of the Peninsula League. The home team was the only club that went through the second half undefeated, and the fact that the team made this splendid record proves well balanced offensive and defensive strength.

The mighty bat of the one and only Harry Maloney shattered all hope that the Redwood City lads may have had for victory, when with the score tied going into the ninth inning, he poled his second home run of the day, chasing Carrasco across the plate with one more tally than was needed to sew up the contest. Johnny Vasquez, the scrappy and brilliant shortstop, and Snooks Nelder, local right fielder who saved the game in the ninth by his remarkable catch of Le Roy's deep fly to right field, both poled out home runs.

Read the play by play report and learn the many brilliant high lights of this splendid victory which brought the championship to Daly City.

Umpire Vellou, "the old reliable," deserves great praise for the able manner in which he conducted this spirited battle.

FIRST INNING

Daly City—Kirby out, Webber to Camino. Carrasco tripled to center. Maloney hit a home run to deep center, chasing Carrasco across the plate ahead. Vasquez singled to left. Nelder popped to Moscone. Dinneen singled to left. Albrecht popped to Webber. Four hits, two runs, no errors.

Redwood City — Garcia walked. Webber walked. Camino sacrificed, Sullivan to Dinneen. Harruff out, Sullivan to Dinneen. Moscone singled to right, scoring Garcia and Webber. Cullen out, Sullivan to Dinneen. One hit, two runs, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Daly City—Kondeff singled to left. Sullivan sacrificed, Harruff to Moscone. Kirby fanned. Carrasco walked. Maloney safe on Moscone's bungle, which loaded the sacks. Molloy walked Vasquez, forcing Kondeff over the plate. Nelder at bat. Carrasco scored and both runners advanced on Molloy's wild pitch. Nelder fanned. One hit, two runs, two errors.

Redwood City — Lawler walked. Roche sacrificed, Dinneen unassisted. Molloy singled through short, scoring Lawler. Garcia singled to center. Webber flied to Albrecht, who made a brilliant shoe string catch. Camino flied to Albrecht. Two hits, one run, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Daly City—Dinneen singled between first and second. Albrecht sacrificed, Malloy to Moscone. Kondeff got two bases when Roche dropped his fly ball, Dinneen going to third. Sullivan flied to Roche, who doubled Dinneen at the plate with a perfect throw. One hit, no runs, one error.

Redwood City—Harruff flied to Nelder. Moscone singled to deep short. Cullen walked. Lawler walked, loading the bases. Roche flied to Albrecht, Moscone scoring after the catch. Molloy out, Vasquez to Dinneen. One hit, one run, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Daly City—Kirby drove a hot liner at Moscone, who made a very remarkable back hand catch, retiring the runner the first. Carrasco popped to Webber. Maloney flied to Roche. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Redwood City—Garcia reached second on Vasquez's overthrow to first of his grounder. Webber singled to right, scoring Garcia. Webber took second on the thow home. Camino popped to Vasquez. Harruff out, Vasquez to Dinneen. Moscone at bat. Webber stole third. Moscone fanned. One hit, one run, one error.

FIFTH INNING

DESERT CONQUERED BY HIGHWAYS

Driving over the desert is no longer an ordeal. The main transcontinental routes leading out of southern California cross many miles of arid wastelands, but through the untiring efforts of highway officials, the motorist may now spin along with ease.

It is said the early hours of the morning are the most comfortable for desert traveling. The desert retains heat long after sundown and there is always the danger of motorists' becoming drowsy and losing control of their cars.

Dark glasses are indispensible and Thermos jugs of ice water or lemonade are a help when crossing the dry wastes. Twenty four hour service is rendered at most supply points.

GREASE MODERATELY

The universal joint should be lubricated frequently but it should never be packed full of grease.

Due to centrifugal force caused by the revolving shafts the joint will retain grease longer if it is not packed full.

SAFETY EFFORT URGES RAILROAD CROSSING CARE

Records show that about 66 per cent of casualties due to grade crossing accidents last year in the state were at locations where some form of special protection is maintained, according to a recent statement. With the vacation season in progress and many motorists traveling new and unfamiliar routes, the increased danger of grade crossing accidents has prompted the launching of a series of educational efforts this month on the need for caution at intersections of highways and rail lines.

The grade crossing accident situation in California has shown steady improvement during the past several years and every effort to maintain the trend is desirable, motorists organizations say. The statements call attention to the fact that motorists are required by state laws to observe certain rules of safety in approaching and traversing highway and railway intersections. One section of this law is quoted as follows:

"Whenever any person driving a vehicle approaches a highway and interurban electric or steam railway grade crossing, and a human flagman or clearly visible electrical or mechanical signal gives warning of the immediate approach of a railway train or car, it shall be unlawful for the driver to fail to bring the vehicle to a complete stop within fifty feet, but not less than ten feet, of the nearest railway tracks before traversing the grade crossing. It shall be unlawful for the driver to traverse a grade crossing when a flagman continues to give a signal of the approach of a railway train or car."

In addition to these provisions, the state law limits the speed of vehicles to fifteen miles per hour while crossing over any railway grade crossing where the driver's view is obstructed.

RECORD TRAFFIC TOLL SPURS SAFETY DRIVES

The record-shattering total of 36,000 traffic fatalities established in the United States last year has given new impetus to campaigns for street and highway safety. Intensive studies are being conducted through many channels to ferret out the major causes of these accidents and to determine the best methods of corrections. Interesting circumstances are shown in some of the preliminary studies as follows:

The pedestrian continues to occupy the lead in the number of fatalities. Although the total number of collisions with other automobiles was larger, collisions with pedestrians accounted for the greatest number of deaths, the aggregate last year being nearly 14,000 or about 45 per cent of all traffic fatalities.

Of the total number of pedestrians killed or injured, 32,960 were crossing at an intersection, 72,070 were crossing between intersections, 5000 riding or hitching on a moving vehicle, 36,060 were coming from behind a parked car, and 47,960—nearly all children—were playing in the street.

The peak hour of fatal accidents was 7 to 8 p. m. If non-fatal accidents are included, the peak hour was from 5 to 6 p. m.

Fatalities were most numerous on Saturday and Sunday.

October had the most deaths in a five-year average. November second.

Four out of five fatal accidents occurred on dry roads. Four out of five occurred in clear weather.

About 78 per cent of the motor vehicles involved in fatal accidents were passenger cars, 17 per cent trucks, and the remainder other types.

Official reports showed that only 7 per cent of cars in fatal accidents were defective; however, careful research indicates that vehicular defects contribute in about 15 per cent of the accidents.

ABOUT TIRE INFLATION

With regard to recommended inflation of the tires on your car, motorists should remember that the figure given is for a minimum pressure.

There is no need to worry about the fact that the tires may pick up added pressure due to heated pavements. That possibility is thoroughly considered and allowed for in the recommendation of the manufacturer with regard to standard inflation.

NEW IDEAS LEND CHARM TO FROCK

PATTERN 2198

This is the type of dress that gives a lot of real pleasure. Those perky sleeves with the unique shoulder and yoke arrangement do the most amazing things—made in taffeta or organdie, for example, they stand right out with a lot of "ginger." But do them in a soft crepe, voile or crinkly chiffon, and they fall caressingly upon the arm, which means, of course, that they're becoming to anyone. The frock is as easy to make as it is lovely—you'll like the motion that little skirt panel gives when you walk—the easy fit of those little tucks at the waist, with their ensuing softness. The skirt panel may be omitted if you prefer the skirt plain.

Pattern 2198 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2⅞ yards 39-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address, and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

SYNOPSIS

Following his father's bitter criticism of his idle life, and the withdrawal of financial assistance, Hal Ireland, only son of a wealthy banker, finds himself practically without funds but with the promise of a situation in San Francisco, which city he must reach, from New York, within a definite time limit. He takes passage with a cross-country auto party on a "share expense" basis. With five other members of the party, an attractive girl, Barry Trafford; middle-aged Giles Kerrigan; Sister Anastasia, a nun; and an individual whom he instinctively dislikes, Martin Crack, he starts his journey. Barry's reticence annoys him. To Kerrigan he takes at once, but he is unable to shake off a feeling of uneasiness. He distrusts Crack, although finding his intimacy with Kerrigan ripening, and he makes a little progress with Barry.

"Then I wasn't wrong. We can start all over again."

"All over," she said. Her shower stopped and Hal's came more strongly. Then she made a squeak of horror.

"What now? Bed-jacket wet?"

"No, but I've got a chill and no towel. Gosh! What would Lubitsch do?"

"Keep the chill," said Hal, "you'll need it. I'll toss you a towel over the top."

He reached the harsh, gray towel Kerrigan had got for him and swung an end of it into her compartment. "Got it?"

"Oh, thanks," she said, "a lot."

"You'll remember this and not be boompsish with me tomorrow?"

"Yes. No. I mean I won't be whatever you said. I'm sorry I was."

"Don't be," said Hal.

"All right, I won't." Then, in a moment, her soft voice said, "I'm going now. Good night. Thanks for a lovely shower."

"Hey, my towel," said Hal.

"You want it back?" she said, mildly incredulous.

"Oh, goodness, yes."

"But—" she paused and Hal waited a moment.

"It's my towel, isn't it?" he said without sympathy.

The end of the towel flopped into sight. "It's wet," she said. "Good night."

"Good night, Barry," he said.

He stopped his shower and took the towel. It was damp, faintly fragrant as he brought it near. He hesitated: Why was it wrong to use it? The sparkling of his gray eyes went faintly sober; and, folding the towel, he stuffed it into the pocket of his slicker. Suddenly Barry's voice came casually over the top of the partition again. "What's your first name?"

"Oh, hello," he said as if she'd caught him at something. "Hal. Henry. Hal. Why? No, I didn't mean that."

"Didn't mean what?"

"The 'why.'"

"Night," she said. "Pleasant dreeums."

"Same to you, uh—Garbo."

He heard her door close and latch. Slicking the loose water from his skin with his hands, the impulse to chuckle kept nudging comfortably at his stomach. And we shall meet again, I trust.

CHAPTER III

Wednesday

The morning light looked washed, the air carried the semblance of refreshment from the night, and the rich smell of the exhaust seemed hopeful as they started off, aiming for breakfast at some near town. Miller seemed to think nothing had changed since yesterday for, after he had lashed the luggage under the tarpaulin behind, he climbed into the driver's place. "Not today," Hal said to him. "Better try your invention, in back." They hadn't gone a mile down the road before Mrs. Pulsifer hurled the debris of her eye-opening orange at her raised window.

"Shouldn't do that," said Pulsipher. "Dangerous."

"Oh, dangerous pussycats!" she snapped at him.

Hal looked over at Kerrigan whose eyes were smiling as he peeled a peach with a large knife. The knife caught Hal's eye; the single, tapered, four-inch blade was set to a handle of natural stag-horn, also tapered, with a ring at the thick end.

"Nice knife," he said.

"French," said Kerrigan, regarding it. "Laborers use 'em to cut their bread at lunch and each other Saturday nights."

"Is that what you'll use to—when you round out your collection?"

Kerrigan gave an innocent, generous smile. "Might," he said. He finished his neat peeling of the peach and held it over the wheel where Hal could see it. "Manage that?"

"Oh, thanks," said Hal, and took it. The car, with its age, ailments, and unnatural load, was cranky, and Hal guessed it might be a good thing that the driver's rear-vision mirror didn't give him Barry's face to look at. Instead it showed Sister Anastasia's, tranquil and immaculate, below the oblong of the back window. And when Hal glanced up, out of an habitual alertness for motorcycle police, he saw the nun's head occasionally turned toward Barry, her lips moving, her expression one of comfort, of trust, of intimacy almost. He strained his ears for a hint of what they might be talking about, but their murmurs were unintelligible among the dry and labored songs of the car's antiquity.

Hal remembered yesterday's sense of portent, of the shadow of something impending—like a presence with them. It had been odd, almost vivid, and he had been half waiting for it to come again. If it came, and he could see Sister Anastasia look like that—her serenity made deep, limpid, cool round the traces of an unforgotten sadness near her eyes—the feeling wouldn't make him uneasy again. And it might not come. Purged of his own confusion of spirit, with Miller's outrageousness on the road and his sleepy thievery disarmed, the atmosphere was healthier. There were possibilities to look to: Barry, with her first defenses relinquished; he and Kerrigan running their own expedition from Detroit after today and— He must get Kerrigan at lunch time and decide what was best to do about Miller in Detroit: turn him off loose, try to get him blacklisted with the agencies, if they bothered with blacklists, or let the police have a go at him. The man oughtn't to be at large, and yet it might. . . .

"Say," came Crack's indolent, confederate murmur close to Hal's ear: "thought any 'bout what you'll do to this bird Miller?"

* * * * * * *

Hal snatched a bite of breakfast and, to save time, went off to have the car sustained with water, gas, and oil while the others either joined or watched the Pulsiphers celebrate the earnest ritual of eating. Barry's eyes were soberly, internally thoughtful again: and the transient civility that had stood in them for a moment when Hal met her look was no recognition of their advance of the night before. When he came back to the breakfast place, she gave him her polite recognition and would have turned away if he hadn't held her eyes with the steady, curious twinkling of his.

"Must You Be So Solemn?" He Said.

She raised her eyebrows—simple, cleanly traced, barely curved—and prompted him. "What?"

"Must you be so solemn?" he said "You look as if you couldn't remember whether you'd turned off the gas at home."

She smiled without especial joy. "The morning's always solemn," she said. "Everything's so clear."

"How everything?"

"Oh, strength," she said, "and fear and things like that. In the morning you know it's silly to be afraid of the dark, but you know that when the dark comes you'll be afraid again."

"Are you afraid of the dark?"

She shook her head a little. "Not in the morning," she said. "Kerrigan wants a paper. If I find a place open, do you want one?" Not a personal favor.

Hal bowed, with a smile as politely reticent as hers. "Love it," he said.

She left him, and Hal rummaged in the car for a tire gauge. Then Miller came out, blinking in the sun.

"Got a tire gauge?" Hal said.

"Sure," said Miller.

"Throw it on all round and see what we've got, will you?"

Mrs. Pulsipher came through the door then, followed by Sister Anastasia and Crack. Miller half turned his grin toward them, and said with his air of sleepy cleverness: "You're drivin'. Whyn't you do it?"

Hal looked up smartly: at once Miller's bleary grin was less certain of itself. Was the man possessed of some animal loathsomeness that could affect others? Hal couldn't think there was enough energy of spirit for that behind the glazed eyes. He commanded Miller's flimsy effrontery with his eyes, conscious that the golf ball in Crack's lazy hand had stopped joggling, as if sharing its master's curiosity to see what Hal would do.

"Check the tires," said Hal quietly. As he watched Miller go [illegible] gauge, Hal's hands hung clear of his body, carefully, as if he had been handling sewage.

So this day too was started with something wrong, something almost stealthy in it—something besides the infirmities of the car and the heat that grew to a slow embrace of everything in the hazy, still landscape. To get to Detroit quickly, to be quit of Miller and the car—that was the focus for urgency. Miller might, under his unwashed stupor, possess some faculty for making Hal discontented with his own skin. At least there was no point in trying to tell what made it till this man was dropped.

The engine was little by little making up its mind to quit, discouraged by the brevity of easier gradients and cowed by a team of three big busses that charged down—a fierce happiness in their flapping tarpaulins—from the Alleghany summits.

"This is bad enough," said Kerrigan. "But think of hopping the Atlantic. Listening for the horses to cool off every second for thirty hours would harden all my arteries, give me a million dollars' worth of persecution complex." And over his shoulder he asked Miller, "What's the matter with this studio-number of yours, Robin Hood?"

"Little warm," said Miller, like a doped horse-trader. "How far do you reckon it to Detroit?"

There was a sort of lazy triumph in Crack's saying, as if he had a map and a speedometer in his lap: "Between three and three fifty. 'At'll make it a long trip for today."

"We're going to do it," said Hal, "if we have to trade this barge for bicycles."

After a long, laborious time, the car churned out a last flat sneeze, and a solid sign by the road proclaimed a summit, with statistics to prove it. There was no higher land visible ahead. And a can and half of water sent the car off to the less rigorous dips and climbs of the Mississippi Divide like an old dog remembering the smell of spring.

It rained as they dipped down the last rolling land of Pennsylvania to the straight roads of Ohio. For two miles a short passenger train hurried darkly along the straight track that converged upon the straight road, Kerrigan musing on it, Hal glancing at him and at it with a pleasant sense of intimacy deepening between them. Then the locomotive cried exasperation at the crossing.

"Train comin'," Pulsipher murmured.

Miller chuckled. "I seen that quite a ways back," he said.

And for another two miles it raced away on its divergent course, white bursts from the whistle followed by its faint screams for crossings—hurrying urgently under its blackened breath as if it had the whole country to cross before night.

Then they came to Akron, a spread of buildings that grew irregularly higher toward a nubbin of the tallest, in the modern style. Mrs. Pulsipher knew it was Akron by the smell of rubber.

The city had lunch places, and that was important. It was near three o'clock.

Miller frankly distrusted the "Tea Shoppe" that had caught Mrs. Pulsipher's bright and hungry eye, and he wouldn't go in. But the lady made it hard for the others—impossible for John—not to follow her. The dog had dragged Barry down the street on a good scent, and Hal and Kerrigan let the others fill one table, avoiding the solicitation of Crack's lazily hopeful look.

"You and the princess aren't still walking round each other stiff-legged, are you?" said Kerrigan.

"Wouldn't be sure," said Hal, watching the friendly, brown eyes quizzically. "Why?"

"Oh, I haven't got any Kreuger blood in me," said Kerrigan quickly. "I just wondered if we could begin having a happy time—the three of us—or whether I had to be a referee."

"I think she's a grand girl," said Hal, calmly. "You'll forgive my asking what Kreuger blood's got to do with it."

"Kreuger made matches once along with a Mr. Toll," said Kerrigan.

Hal laughed and started to say something, but then Barry came in to them. Her unstudied smile of pleasure at having been waited-for barely included Hal in its beginning, and the end of it, with a leisured drooping of the eyelids, was all for Kerrigan. And that piqued Hal smartly, even while he pretended to chuckle to himself.

I know a weakness in you, beautiful, and I'm still going to use it.

But he found himself watching her carefully, alertly, as if he might miss something pleasant.

"First," said Kerrigan, when they'd sat down, "we ought to agree to be sociable."

Barry glanced up from her menu in innocent inquiry. "I thought we were," she said: "aren't we?"

"All right, we are," said Kerrigan. "You admit it. Then let us bare our hearts to each other even as—"

"Oh, let's order something before that," Barry said. "The body, you know."

"Yes," said Kerrigan, on a sigh, "I know the body, to my sorrow. What is yours having?"

Hal suspected Barry of putting Kerrigan off in whatever he had been about to suggest; but when the waitress shuffled away, she said to Kerrigan: "Is it painless—your heart idea?"

"To us who are pure there—yes," Kerrigan said. "Here's what I thought—just for an awfully good romp. Each of us gives a short biography of him or herself, you see—like the suburban obituaries in the city paper—"

"Jolly," said Hal.

CALIFORNIA
News of the Week

A chain of jewels is the catwalk on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge at night. Electric lights have been installed on the catwalk from San Francisco to the center anchorage, permitting workmen to spin cables 24-hours a day.

With a jury finally selected from 150 veniremen, the Modesto trial of eight marine workers charged with plotting to dynamite the property of a major oil company at Patterson has started. The trial is an outgrowth of the recent tanker strike.

The biennial state budget, the target of so many criticisms in California, has been praised by the Governmental Research Bureau Bulletin, a national publication. Favorable comment is made on presentation of material.

Perhaps Daniel Maher, 20, had read about the mixup over California's speeding laws. Anyhow, a San Francisco judge found him guilty of driving 65 miles an hour in the city limits and of another minor traffic offense. Maher has already begun serving his 95-day jail sentence.

Paul Scharrenberg, 85, veteran California labor spokesman and recently "ousted" from the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, has been reinstated by the International Seamen's Union. The ouster move, made by a radical group, threatened his post as State Federation of Labor secretary.

Sacramento County is well on the road to recovery. Auditor L. P. Williams announces that fewer pieces of property have been sold to the state for nonpayment of taxes than in any year since 1929. Williams added that much of the property sold prior to 1934 has been redeemed by original owners.

The meanest burglar in the world robbed Michael Connor, of Oakland, father of six and jobless plasterer of $2.35, his work-relief card and some street car tokens—the entire family fortune. On the night of the robbery Mrs. Connor had just given birth to twins.

Violence flared up in the Sacramento River Lines strike when a truck belonging to the company was hijacked near Lodi. Meanwhile, the walkout of 50 clerks at Stockton, Sacramento and San Francisco completely paralyzed the activities of the company, which, since its boats were tied up, was attempting to transport goods by truck.

Gold Gulch, the California-in-'49 camp at the California Pacific International Exposition, has been reopened—after having been chastened by censors. Police Chief Sears, San Diego, closed the Gold Gulch Gertie show recently. First to be arrested was Joan Wade, riding a white burro and impersonating Lady Godiva.

Twelve San Francisco women have been threatened with blindness through use of dinitrophenol, and one Los Angeles woman has died as a result of an overdose of the fat-reducing drug.

"It's swell to be home again," announced Jimmy Neilson, 13, the boy with the ex-upside down tummy, as he arrived in Oakland after long weeks at the Fall River hospital, Massachusetts. A group of citizens raised $1100 to send him East to have his stomach righted.

Herman Bloch and son, Carl, both expert divers, will attempt to solve a mystery which Davy Jones has kept in his locker for 70 years. It is the golden mystery of the Brother Jonathan, sunk in 70 feet of water about 20 miles south of the Oregon line in 1865 with a $365,000 payroll and supposedly $3,000,000 in gold aboard. The divers claim to have located the wreck.

Marin County's leading kidnap case has ended in forgiveness and tears. Lee Madden had "kidnaped" his two sons and was arrested at the behest of his wife, Margaret, who said he had threatened to kill them and herself. Trouble started when the couple separated July 1. After the 23-year-old husband's capture, husband and wife were reconciled.

Harry Garcia found it hard to be nonchalant as he stepped onto the gallows platform at Folsom Prison. Unfortunately he had found it easier to kill, having stabbed two fellow convicts to death recently. On the same day as Garcia's hanging, William O'Connor died at San Quentin of tuberculosis, after having served half his 25-year sentence. He was the notorious leader of the $100,000 Houston-Gilmore robbery of 11 years ago.

After finishing business involving organization of a new film company Douglas Fairbanks left Hollywood and his former wife, Mary Pickford, and flew to New York to rejoin Lady Sylvia Ashley. The pair will embark for England.

With Rupert Hughes, writer, officiating, funeral services for Ray Long, brilliant editor, were held in Beverly Hills last week. Despondent over his career, which he thought a failure, he committed suicide. His annual salary exceeded $100,000.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

The latest official reports of the Naional Board of Fire Underwriters show that the annual fire loss for several years approximate a half billion dollars.

A large portion of this wastage occurs in the homes through carelessness.

Among the causes listed as preventable are chimney fires, costing $20,000,000; fires from hot ashes, coals and open fire places, $5,000,000; matches and smoking, $29,000,000; rubbish and litter left around carelessly, $1,000,000; sparks on roofs, $11,000,000, and from stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes, $18,000,000. Under partially preventable causes are listed electricity, with loss of about $12,000,000; spontaneous combustion, about $14,000,000; exposure or fires originating outside of buildings, $45,000,000; sparks on wooden shingle roofs, about $12,000,000.

This is a partial list of the financial losses each year in America, but does not cover the loss in factories by labor while rebuilding.

The financial side of course is of great importance to the people, but is not quite so heartrending as the fact that more than 10,000 lives are sacrificed annually in fires. And the reports show that 75 per cent of these fire losses, both financial and deaths, are preventable.

Some of the citizens seem to think that they are allowed to drive over fire hose. I would like to notify them that any one doing so will be arrested and prosecuted. At a grass fire last Wednesday Chief John T. Doyle had occasion to present a tag for this violation and the culprit will appear before the judge this week.

POPULAR GIRL TO BE BRIDE SOON

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Georgina Bennett of Niantic avenue and Mr. William Kennedy of Lyon street, San Francisco.

The ceremony will be held at St. John's Presbyterian church in San Francisco, Saturday, July 27.

Easy If Done Right

If the car is fitted with one set of brakes with two means of operation, there is a simply way to release the hand, or parking, brake lever when it seems to be stuck.

Pressing on the brake pedal will relieve the pressure on the hand lever ratchet which is causing the latter to hold fast despite the most vigorous efforts to release it.

FREE PICNIC AT GLAD SEA WAVES

The Daly City Rod and Gun Club extend a cordial invitation to all residents of Daly City to attend its annual picnic and outing Sunday, July 28 at Martin's Beach, seven miles south of Half Moon Bay on the Coast highway. Bring the wife and children, they all will enjoy an outing such as they will never forget. Fresh caught fish cooked and served free with coffee free.

Bring lunch and cups. All kinds of games, races, horseshoes, base ball, surf casting, bathing. Prizes for all. Dancing Saturday night, July 27 and Sunday, July 28. Haywire orchestra. Cabins can be had by phoning Ed Moore, Del. 4929. Let us show you a real good time. Just a get-together of the home folks, you will never forget. We are one big family in Daly City, lets act so. This is on us. Come one, come all.

MISCELLANEOUS BRIDAL SHOWER

Mrs. Rose Compani of Los Banos avenue entertained at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening of last week at her home in honor of Miss Josie Derenzi of San Francisco, who is to become the bride of Mrs. Compani's son, Dominic, the latter part of this year.

The table was prettily decorated in pastel shades of crepe paper and flowers.

Miss Derenzi received many useful gifts.

Those present were: Msedames Rachelli Rodella, Mary Mastro, Antenitti Wood, Francis Castango, Brigito Ambrozio, Grace Fabino, Francis Zampanno, Rachelli Conti, Marie Addiego, Annie Conti, Rose Lafrano, M. The following officers were elected at our last meeting: President, Hilda Prjiborowski; first vice president, Norma Andersen; second vice president, Gladys Riordan; secretary, Julia Jordan; treasurer, Mary Crane; chaplin, Margaet Orr; historian, Janet Chaplin; sergeant at arms, Alice Rielly, Marshal, Clara Durkee; organist, Grace Tallmadge; for executive committee, Margaret Kenney, Nora Clifton and Lottie Chapman.

The Fresno state convention is but a few weeks away and the members of the San Mateo County Council driell team are planning various activities to raise the last few dollars to take them to Fresno. The Daly City unit members are planning to gave a spaghetti feed on Saturday, August 27. We invite you all to come, any of our members have tickets.

We are also planning a large whist to be held in Burlingame Legion Hall Tuesday evening, August 30 at 8:30 o'clock. Again we invite you to come. This whist is being taken care of by the council officers and the Burlingame girls of the team.

On Wednesday, July 17 we had our regular meeting and as usual each one had a pleasant time, thanks to Norma.

Don't forget the dinner on August 27 in Daly City Legion Hall, and also the whist in Burlingame on August 30.

SACRED SONG AT GRACE CHURCH

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Grace Presbyterian church will be honored by a commissioner from the Synod of California which is meeting in San Francisco this week. The name of the speaker is not yet revealed but it is assured that he will be a Fundamentalist and a preacher of the Gospel.

In the evening Alfred Bjorglund, the Scandinavian basso, with Tom Bennett, the lyric tenor, will be present at 7:45 p. m., when a delightful musical evening will be enjoyed.

STEERING WOBBLE

If your car has seen considerable service, have the ping-pin bushings checked when the steering develops a wobble.

WHEEL LUBRICATION

If the spokes around the hub of the front wheels of the car are grease covered, it is an indication that the wheel bearings may need lubrication at more frequent intervals or that they have not been packed with the proper grade of grease.

COUNTY PROTESTS DISCRIMINATION IN PAY TO WORKERS IN NEW SET UP

Supervisors Go On Record In Favor of Equality With San Francisco

scales was voted upon motion of Supervisor Albert Witt, Daly City, seconded by Supervisor John Poole, Redwood City.

A letter of the San Francisco Central Council of Civic Clubs, opposing "Plan X" as a solution of the traffic conditins created by the San Francisco - Oakland bay bridge ,was referred to the county planning commission for study and a report, on motion of Supervisors Walter M. High and Fred E. Beer. Supervisor Al Witt, Daly City, said "Plan X" and all other downtown terminal plans affecting Peninsula commuter travel should be "seriously studied."

Engineer-Appointee U. S. Marshal and Robert A. Klassen, engineer on the job, both urged the early completion of the Colma creek project, and spoke of the urgency of making application for WPA funds. Of the propsed PWA share of $115,000, some $75,000 would be spent for labor and $40,000 for materials. Of the balance of $8000, the county would contribute 90 per cent and South San Francisco 10 per cent.

Norman Rushton, Burlingame inhurance man and prominent churchman, protested the appointment of Eugene C. Clapp as business manager of Community Hospital, on the ground that Clapp is receiving a pension as a retired railroad company official. He requested that Clapp be asked to resign.

"This board had nothing to do with the appointment," said Supervisor Witt. "If it had, Mr. Clapp would not have been appointed."

Clapp was named to the $3000 a year post last week by Health Director C. C. Gans, with County Executive Kellogg's approval.

W. H. Morrissey, Redwood City attorney, in a communication to the board, urged that the $50,000 proposed gift to the San Francisco-San pledged so that the fund could be Mateo County Livestock Pavilion be used in relieving the unemployment situation by putting men to work at once.

At meetings of the board Wednesday and Thursday the proposed Colma and Baden creek drainage project was taken up. Supervisor Al Witt, Daly City, favors the payment by the county of $27,000 toward the project.

The plan calls for South San Francisco to contribute 10 per cent, or $3000, of the $30,000 material and labor costs, and the balance of about $100,000 would be secured through a PWA project.

DALY CITY UNIT ACTS AS HOSTESS

(Mrs. L. N. Zant, Pub. Chmn.)

San Mateo Council of the American Legion Auxiliary met in Legion Hall, Daly City, on Friday, July 12, at 8:30 o'clock. President Bertha Brady presided.

The report of Mrs. Catherine Foreman on the activities of the drill team during the past year showed this group to be a very active part of organization and patriotic programs, both in San Mateo and San Francisco counties. The team has participated in parades , exhibition drills, initiations, installations, memorial services and funeral services; sometimes taking part in prgrams in two different cities on the same day. From now on until the convention in Fresno, drill will be held two or three times every week, and the team is expected to ably represent San Mateo County at that affair.

Proposed plans to raise funds toward sending the team to the convention include a dinner in Daly City Legion Hall to be sponsored by Daly City and South San Francisco units, hat checking concessions sponsored by Burlingame unit, and a card party on Tuesday, July 30 at 8 p. m. in Burlingame Legion Hall, under the direction of the council officers.

Mrs. Foreman, president of District Eight, announced the next meeting of the district will be held in room 212 of the War Memorial Building in San Francisco on Monday, July 22 at 8:30 sharp. At that meeting, two minute reports will be heard from district chairmen and election of district officers to serve for the coming year will be held. Members to serve on convention committees will also be appointed. The units of Greater Mission, Zane Irwin, West of Twin Peaks and Bernard McCaffery will serve as hostesses.

The next meeting of the council will be held Friday evening, August 9 with Menlo Park and Redwood City joint hostesses. The place of meeting will be announced later. Following adjournment, refreshments were served by Daly City unit and a social hour enjoyed.
